Harolds Inn Restaurant

Introduction

This website is for Harold's Inn Restaurant. I started with a wireframe. This made the next steps easier as I had a design in place. The plan changed a few times because I learned ways to streamline, and make a visually balanced site.

Design and Implementation

I designed the home page to be both inviting and easy to navigate. I used anchor tags to different part of the same page, I also wrapped a button in catering that opens a modal. The very bottom, before the map, I used a carousel to display the pictures of inviting food. The overall color scheme is based off of the main image. I used the color picker to get the exact color from the photo to use in the header, footer and links.

Conclusions

Over all this project went smooth. I learned about text justification, more about containers and also about the importance of over all balance.
If I could change anything in the project it would be the menu page by adding pictures of the food with the description under.
